Yellowstone National Park Seeks Public Comment on a Native Fish Conservation Environmental Assessment

MAMMOTH HOT SPRINGS, WY – Yellowstone National Park asks the public for comments on an Environmental Assessment (EA) that analyzes a proposal by Custer Gallatin National Forest and Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks about native fish conservation.

In 2022, Custer Gallatin National Forest along with Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks issued an EA proposing to remove nonnative rainbow trout and hybridized cutthroat trout from the Buffalo Creek drainage, just north of Yellowstone in the Absaroka Beartooth Wilderness of Custer Gallatin National Forest. After removal, they plan to reintroduce native Yellowstone cutthroat trout to the drainage.

Yellowstone's EA analyzes the 2022 proposal's site-specific impacts to Yellowstone. Both agencies plan to use the Slough Creek area in the northeastern part of Yellowstone to access the Buffalo Creek drainage and stage equipment. Yellowstone's EA alternatives include:

Alternative 1: The National Park Service (NPS) would remove nonnative and hybridized trout from Buffalo Creek within the park in order to reintroduce native Yellowstone cutthroat trout. This is the park's current management direction for native fish conservation and was authorized in the park's 2010 Native Fish Conservation Plan. In addition, Alternative 1 would not authorize Custer Gallatin National Forest and Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks to use the park in support of their proposal.

Alternative 2: The NPS would allow Custer Gallatin National Forest to use the Slough Creek area for helicopter flights and to access their project area by foot and stock once the national forest finalizes their plan. Five to ten flights per year would take place and the project could take up to 10 years to complete.

The Custer Gallatin National Forest and Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks 2022 proposal supports Yellowstone's 2010 conservation plan. The park's success rate for conserving native trout within its boundary would be limited without the ability to remove nonnative fish upstream in the national forest.

Comments must be received by August 9, 2023. Comments may be submitted online or by mail.

Buttermilk Area Closure Lifted Outside of West Yellowstone

West Yellowstone, MT, August 1, 2023— The Custer Gallatin National Forest, Hebgen Lake Ranger District today lifted the Buttermilk Area Closure west of the community of West Yellowstone, Montana. The closure was implemented to address human/bear safety conditions following the July 22 human fatality from a grizzly bear encounter. Capture and patrol operations trying to locate the sow have been ongoing as a public safety precaution given the incident’s proximity to campgrounds, residences, and the high volume of recreationists in the area. Capture operations have been unsuccessful and have been discontinued.

- Please remember that Montana is bear country and to always take precautions.
- Carry bear spray and be prepared to use it immediately.
- Travel in groups whenever possible and make noise, which can help alert bears to your presence.
- Stay away from animal carcasses, which often attract bears. If you come across a carcass leave the area immediately and report it to Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks or the Custer Gallatin Forest.
- Follow food storage orders from the applicable land management agency.
- If you encounter a bear, never approach it. Leave the area when it is safe to do so.

“We ask that all visitors to the Custer Gallatin National Forest continue to be bear aware while recreating on the forest. Traveling in a group, making noise, and properly storing attractants are all steps that reduce the chance of conflict in grizzly bear country,” said Nick Mustoe, Acting Hebgen Lake District Ranger.

For more information on bear safety and details regarding the food storage order visit online at <https://www.fs.usda.gov/main/custergallatin>. For additional information please contact the Hebgen Lake Ranger District at (406) 823-6961.
