Judge's Order Halts Wolf Trapping and Snaring Season in Most of Montana

HELENA – Wolf trapping and snaring in Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks administrative regions 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, and in Hill, Blaine, and Phillips counties won't start until Jan. 1 and will run through Feb. 15, according to a federal court injunction issued Tuesday evening. In areas in eastern Montana outside FWP administrative regions 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, and Hill, Blaine, and Phillips counties the order does not apply, and the wolf trapping and snaring season will start November 27 and run through March 15 as described in the 2023 wolf regulations.

The wolf hunting season, separate from trapping and snaring, remains in place and is open through March 15 as described in the 2023 wolf-regulations. Wolf harvest quotas are still in place for FWP regions and can be tracked via the Wolf-Harvest Dashboard.

FWP and the Fish and Wildlife commission have worked diligently to assemble and implement sound science-based management for wolves and grizzly bears, including the wolf regulations impacted by this ruling. The recovered status of grizzly bears in the Northern Continental Divide and Yellowstone ecosystems is testimony to this effort. The State of Montana has appealed the ruling. FWP staff will continue to track the denning status of grizzly bears in case an appeal is successful, and the injunction is overturned.

Fish and Wildlife Commission to Postpone Hearing on Upland Game Bird Hunting Regulations, Seasons

HELENA – The Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission hearing originally scheduled for Dec. 14 on the proposed regulations governing upland game bird hunting seasons has been postponed until a later commission meeting. During the public comment period earlier this fall, the public shared insights about hunter experiences in the field, and the department wanted to extend public comment and add time to the hearing at a later meeting so that the commission could make a fully informed decision. For a full agenda, background on the scheduled topics and public comments, go to the Fish and Wildlife Commission page on the FWP website. FWP's website offers live-streamed audio of each Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting.

A special thank you from the 11th and 12th graders to the veterans who joined us for the chit chat following the Veterans Day luncheon. It was an honor to get to ask questions about your time in service and your life today. We learned so much from you. Thank you for sharing your time, your stories, and your wisdom. Each year the Gardiner School works to honor all of the veterans from our community, but sometimes our list is incomplete. We are now adding Anne and Damon Mitchell to our list. Our apologies. If you know of any community members whose names were not on our Veterans Day list, please let Ms. Kirby know via email. hkirby@gardiner.org
