LOCAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

SPRING CRAFT SHOW at the Gardiner Community Center Saturday, May 6th, 9-3pm. Check out handcrafted items including jewelry, soaps, sewn, crocheted, baked goods and more. For more details, email emigrantpeoplesmarket@gmail.com

SUPPORT OUR LOCAL FOOD PANTRY! The annual rummage sale benefiting the Gardiner Food Pantry is this week at the Baptist Church at 806 Scott St. Friday, May 5 from 9 am to 6 pm and Saturday, May 6 from 9 am to 4 pm. Gently used clothing, housewares, books, DVDs, linens, home decor, and more! No early sales. Cash or checks only.

A GENTLE REMINDER to residents and business owners in the Gardiner and surrounding community, Gateway Hose Company, Fire & Ambulance is an emergency service only. Our members are all unpaid volunteers who have families and full-time jobs. 911 calls should only be placed in the event of a life-threatening emergency. If you are a business owner with employees without vehicles, it is your responsibility to transport them to a care facility for minor illnesses and injuries. Mammoth Clinic is a wonderful treatment facility and is only 10 minutes away. Each transport to Livingston takes our ambulance and crew out of the area for a minimum of three hours. If a true emergency occurs while we are transporting a non-life-threat patient, it could cost someone their life. We do what we do because we love and support our community. Please be respectful of our service, the community and our volunteers time! Thank you, Gateway Hose Company, Fire & Ambulance 406-848-7350.

NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER observance on Thursday, May 4, 2023 includes a planned gathering for "Prayer Over Gardiner" - 7:00pm at the Travertine pull-out on the Jardine road. Everyone is welcome to participate and pray for individual and community concerns. For questions, contact Annie Bent at 406-570-2385.

HELENA – With the high levels of snow and very warm temperatures this spring, boaters can expect high waters soon. The combination of high water and high expectations can be deadly when conditions are too extreme for safe boating.

It can be hard to put safety ahead of adventure when you've spent hours planning a boat trip, but sometimes the only safe choice is to stay off the water.

All water users should wear a well-fitted U.S. Coast Guard approved personal flotation device, or life jacket, when on and around the water. If you are in a boat or even near a rapidly flowing river, wear a life jacket – it could save your life. If you fall into cold water without a life jacket, you could drown in a matter of minutes.

There are times, especially for less experienced boaters and floaters, when the dangers aren't readily apparent until they've entered the water. Boaters should make a study of high-water hazards and be prepared to cope with dangers that may include:

- debris in water
- cold water
- logs that get lodged together and block a boat's ability to float through
- bridge abutments that catch debris and create swirling waves
- turbid, muddy water that makes other hazards in the water difficult or impossible to see
- the possibility of capsizing and having to rescue yourself or others
- boaters who get wet and need to be warmed quickly to prevent hypothermia

Here are some tips for navigating the dangers of high water:

- Don't boat alone.
- Make sure someone on shore knows where you plan to put in, take out and when you plan to return.
- If the water at in a stage you wouldn't choose to swim in, then don't launch your boat either.
- If you do launch, wear a well-fitted life jacket and, in rough waters, a helmet.

Boaters should not assume a river is the same as it was during a previous trip. Rivers change their channels, and new hazards, such as overhanging or broken tree branches and log jams, may exist.

Make it part of your plan to reschedule a trip if conditions deteriorate.

Anyone planning to recreate near water should first check the FWP website for safety information. Go to fwp.mt.gov/activities/boating/safety.

Additional fishing access site closures and restrictions are likely as spring runoff continues. For updates, visit fwp.mt.gov/news/current-closures-restrictions.

Yellowstone's scenic wonders are sure to take your breath away: don't let them take your life. From boiling hot springs to thousands of wild animals, some of the hazards in Yellowstone will be new to you. Protect yourself and the sights you plan to enjoy by following a few simple rules:

- Never approach wildlife
The animals in Yellowstone are wild and unpredictable, no matter how calm they appear to be. The safest (and often best) view of wildlife is from inside a car. Always stay at least 100 yards (91 m) away from bears and wolves, and at least 25 yards (23 m) away from all other animals, including bison and elk.
- Stay on boardwalks and trails in thermal areas
Hot springs have injured or killed more people in Yellowstone than any other natural feature. Keep your children close and don't let them run.
- Never feed wildlife
Animals that become dependent on human food may become aggressive toward people and have to be killed. Keep all food, garbage, or other smelly items packed away when not in use.
- Never park in the road or block traffic
Use pullouts to watch wildlife and let other cars pass. Stay with your vehicle if you encounter a wildlife jam.

We can't guarantee your safety in Yellowstone, but these concepts will help you avoid the most common accidents. See below for more great advice, and be sure to review our Rules & Regulations, Laws & Policies, and tips for backcountry travel.

THE BEARS ARE ON THE MARCH

EDUCATE A BEAR THIS WEEK: USE A BEAR-RESISTANT GARBAGE CAN— and lock the can even if it is empty. A hungry bear quickly learns to pass up bear-cans that smell good but don't deliver food. Bear-proof your yard:

- Lock away grills and dog food dishes.
- Stop feeding the birds in spring and fall.
- VRBO and Air B&B hosts, please tell your guests to use only designated bear-resistant cans. We can help you get one. We have brochures about bear safety.

Bear Awareness Gardiner gives out one free can to every residence in the Gardiner area. If you need one, call Evan at 207-441-7199.

BAG thanks Yellowstone Forever for a generous grant to help pay for bear-cans and fund several large Business Cost-Sharing projects! Call 207-441-7199 to find out if we can help your business.

BAG thanks Gardiner's Resort Tax board for a grant to pay for residential bear cans.

BAG thanks Spencer Bruce of Full Circle Bio-Diesel for swapping out all Gardiner restaurants' grease-traps to bear-resistant ones!

BAG thanks our MTFWP biologists. If you have a bear problem call Jeremiah Smith at (406) 577-7877.
